Creating better:

Accept all relevant responses.

Thinking better:

Living things depend on non-living things in their environment for many different needs, like food, water, air, shelter and sunlight.

For example, a fish lives in water and depends on it for oxygen, food and to keep its body at the right temperature.

Choosing better:

- In an area with proper sunlight, water and air.

Developing better

A. English:

- My mother takes care of all the plants in our garden.
- My dog, Victor, loves to be around humans.

B. Maths:

- 916; Nine hundred six
- 513; Five hundred three

C. Social Studies:

The tools made by early humans using wood and stone are different from each other. As early human beings used stone tools for cutting and making various things. The stone tools were also used as weapons for hunting and protecting the humans from wild animals. Whereas wood was often used to make things like spears, sticks and handles for tools because it's easier to carve and shape.
