2. The poet says this because we see many people, but we do not know their names or lives.
- C. 1. The people are going to different places in the city.
2. The people on the sidewalk are walking, and the people on the bus are travelling.
3. The poet is asking us to observe and think about, and sing about city life and people.
- D. 1. Accept all relevant responses.
Sample response: The poet sees all kinds of people in the city. Some walk quickly and others walk slowly. Some are alone, while others are in big groups. The poet also notices that some people are quiet, and others talk loudly. This shows that the city is full of many different kinds of people, all busy with their own lives.
2. Accept all relevant responses.
Sample response: I like the lines "People walking singly, / People in crowd;". These lines mean that some people walk alone and some walk together. I like them because they show how everyone in the city is different.
